A Field for Our Board of Trade.

Palo Alto, San Mateo, and other peninsular towns, are advertising their respective attractions and advantages among the homeless people of San Francisco. At Palo Alto the citizens have subscribed the sum of $1107.50 to be paid each month for three months, to be expended in promoting the interests of Palo Alto as a home town for the better class of San Francisco's homeless population. Our local Board of Trade can find a field worthy their very best efforts in the direction above named. The success of our merchants in securing an ordinance regulating peddlers' licenses is proof that the Board of Trade can work with effect in a matter which directly affects the interests of home trade and home merchants. Now let the board move in a matter which will not only benefit themselves but all classes and all citizens.

San Francisco to Be a City of Steel and Cement.

At a meeting of the building committee of San Franciso, it was decided to erect principally brick, stone and concrete buildings, reinforced with steel.

Permits will be issued for temporary buildings until more substantial ones can be erected.

The inability to get the banks in working order has delayed building somewhat, but as soon as insurance losses are paid no doubt San Francisco will take on the greatest building boom this coast has ever seen. Lack of material may retard their progress somewhat, but ultimately San Francisco will be greater, more beautiful and handsome than she was prior to the fire.

That there were disturbances in this neighborhood, more or less frequent, is true, but these disturbances occurred before the late shock visited us, and probably oftener before than after we owner of valuable residence property in opened up last time. If he made such statement after a personal inspection I must say he is a deliberate falsifier. And if he acted upon the reports of his subordinates, they have lied to him.

Mr. Thomas Powers, of Powers & Bannon, and myself had a permit from Supervisor Erkerenkotter of the First township to keep open our saloons from 5 a. m. to 8 p. m. To show how strictly I followed the terms of the permit, I closed on Sunday at 6 p. m. and loon open after 8 p. m. any night after ery in his Mayfield office, causes the En- smelting plant to be put in at San Bruno San Mateo county to have a voice in the week.

The Boulevard Should be Built.

We trust the recent fire in San Francisco will not be the cause of abandoning the contemplated boulevard the plans for which were well under way previous to the great holocaust. There are but two roads leading into San Francisco, the Mission and San Bruno roads. All the produce and dairy products are moved over these two roads and in winter they are at times almost impassable. While the contemplated boulevard was for autos only, it would greatly relieve these two congested thor oughfares and aside from being an attractive drive would be the forerunner of better highways in this county. If necessary, the county should offer some inducement or in some way aid and encourage those who are working to beau- ugee from San Francisco. tify and improve our public h ighways.

A Pair of Coddlers.

A man with a curious fendness for ekullcaps was the Abbe de St. Martin, who, in the seventeenth century, made himself ridiculous by his vagaries. He always were nine of these articles to keep off the cold and, furthermore, nine pairs of stockings. His mode of passing the night was more remarkable still. He caused to be constructed for himself a bed of ricks, beneath which was a furnace, so arranged that he could regulate it to the degree of warmth he might require, and his bed was fitted with only a very small opening, through which the abbe used to creep when he retired to rest at night.

Even more ludicrous was the contrivance which the great French mathematician, Fourier, designed and used for the protection of his health. He incased himself in a species of box, the interior of which, by some mechanical means, was kept at the only temperature at which he felt he could live without inconvenience. While enveloped in this clumsy affair he was necessarily confined to one spot, but he provided means for the freedom of his head and hands. Even the ills of asthma and rheumatism, one would have thought. were preferable to existence under such circumstances as this, but the French mathematician, we must believe, was of a different opinion.-London Stand-

Vitality of a Frog's Heart.

There is no living creature, according to a Philadelphia surgeon, that has a heart with so much vitality as a frog. especially the species commonly known as the water frog. It is generally known that the aquatic frog will survive for months after the hind legs have been removed. Of course he cannot hop-about as he could before losing his principal means of transit, but his fore legs help him to crawl wherever he desires to go. When I began to learn surgery I made a special dissection of a freg one day. I laid the various parts of the body on a table and discovered that life was extinct within a few vines and outlined by tasteful bordered hours in every organ except the heart. planting, speaks for itself and for the The heart showed valvular motion for cause as no tongue can speak. monuments of Egypt twenty centuries before our era. They greatly resembled the hammers now in use, save that there were no claws on the back for the extraction of nails. The first hammer was undoubtedly a stone held in the hand. Claw hammers were invented some time during the middle ages. Illuminated manuscripts of the eleventh century represent carpenters with claw hammers. Hammers are of all sizes, from the dainty instruments used by the jeweler, which weigh less than half an ounce, to the gigantic hammer of shipbuilding establishments, some of which weigh as much as fifty tons and have a falling force of from 90 to 100. Every trade has its own hammer and its own way of using it.

Portions of Mrs. Seavey's article, the whole of which was "Leave the World a Pleasanter Place Than You Found It," are herewith reproduced.

Mrs. Seavey said: "Pleasanter is in this application equivalent to better. Environment is coming more and more to be considered a pronounced factor of education-the education that makes for character. If towns, villages and individual homes have an unkempt, shiftless, down at the heel air the passerby is justified in setting down the inhabitants as shiftless, and the generation that grows up amid such surroundings is more than likely to bear their characteristic Imprint. Then, too, there is a material side to the question. The value of real estate increases in direct proportion to its possibilities for home making. And every local business and calling as well as all churches and schools thrive as the ratio of desirable population increases.

"When a few members of a community feel that an improvement society is needed let them learn the feeling of the better class of residents by a personal canvass or by circulating printed slips similar to the following, which is a copy of one issued by the promoters of an eastern organization:

The Saturnalia.

The saturnalia was a midwinter feast of the Romans in honor of Saturn, beginning on Dec. 17. On this occasion great license was given to every one to do what he pleased, and even the slaves were permitted much liberty of speech and action. All work was suspended, the houses and temples were decorated, congratulations were exchanged and presents sent as with us at Christmas.

A Remarkable Bridge.

Among the many odd nooks and corners and crannies of the auld Emerald Isle is Carrick-a-rede, on the Great Northern railroad of Ireland. It is an isolated rock, separated from the mainland by a chasm sixty feet wide and more than eighty feet deep, and it is at this place that the salmon are intercepted in their retreat to the rivers. A rude bridge of ropes is thrown across, which remains during the fishing season, and this bridge, which is protected by a single rope rail, swing; about in the most uncomfortable manner, often rendering it a dangerous feat in stormy we ther save to the natives, who cross if with the uting t indifference. Captain John Smith.

The colony at Jamestown was the first permanent settlement of English speaking people on the American continent. The party of colonists which left the mother country in December, 1606, reached the coast of Virginia in April, 1607. A few days later, on May 13, they landed and began the establishment of the colony of Jamestown. May 13, 1607, should, as many claim,

That show thy Grace and Glory brighter bee:
Thy Faire Discouveries and Fowle Overthrowes Of Salvages, much Civillized by these be regarded as the real birthday of the nation rather than July 4, 1776, the day when it came of age and declared its right to attend to its own affairs. The Jamestown tercentennial exposition will celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of Captain John Smith and his men. These colonists numbered 105, and they came over in three vessels under command of Captain Newport. John Smith soon became director of the colony.

The outrages inflicted upon Jews in Russia are shown with graphic precision in the series of photographs taken by the Russo-Jewish committee formed in Great Britain and including Christians as well as Jews in its mem bership. The committee has sent commissioners to Russia to distribute the funds it has raised for the relief of victims of persecution. The accompanying picture shows the ruin wrought Jew, M. Halperin of Kiev.

Old Ironsides In 1812.

The hulk of the frigate Constitution has been for many years in the Charlestown navy yard, Boston, and as no funds existed for preservation of the vessel it was suggested by the secretary of the navy that the ship be used as a target and thus broken up. The suggestion has aroused protests.

It was a similar suggestion that the frigate be dismantled and destroyed which called forth Oliver Wendell Holmes' celebrated poem, "Old Ironsides." The frigate was built in Boston in 1797. Under Commodore Isaac Hull in August, 1812, she captured the British frigate Guerriere.

Carlyle's Way.

Carlyle appears in a brief reminiscence from the pen of Percy Fitzgerald thus: The thing with Carlyle was to send out for a long churchwarden (a clay pipe) and a screw of tobacco, which put him in great good humor. He talked to his plate, as you might If anybody said anything from which he dissented you would hear him murmuring, "Oh, the puir auld fool; a regular puir auld fool!"

TO MANUFACTURERS

The earthquake did but little damage to South San Francisco. The industries located here, the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Butler Brick Company, the Pacific Jupiter Steel Company, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, and other enterprises, are all in full operation today. Not one of them having suffered any serious impairment by reason of the earthquake.

The South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company planned South San Francisco as a manufacturing suburb to San Francisco. With that object in view they originally purchased 3,500 acres of land in San Mateo County on the bay front five miles south of the City of San Francisco, and have developed their property so that today they possess perfected nearly every feature desired by manufacturers.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

Is a railroad terminal; is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries, a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to town and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent water works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a bank; a town hall; and a population of 3,000 people; an extensive and fine residence district, where workingmen may secure land at reasonable prices, and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

→ FACTORY SITES 는

Can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The American Smelting and Refining Company recently purchased from this Company 200 acres of land and are on the ground today arranging for the immediate construction of a plant costing upwards of $5,000,000. This means a vast increase in population, and a great augmentation for the benefit of all industries of every detail pertaining to rail and water communication.
